Who can be a witness

A person is eligible to be a witness if they are authorised by law to witness the signing of a statutory declaration. A list of people who are eligible to witness a statutory declaration can be found at justice.vic.gov.au/statdec.

A witness also must not be:

What to do with the form

You need to fill it out and sign it.

You also need to take reasonable steps to inform any supportive attorney(s) under the supportive attorney appointment, if you revoke the entire appointment, or any supportive attorney(s) or alternative supportive attorney(s) under the supportive attorney appointment, if you revoke the individual appointment(s).

It is also important to tell any organisations or people, such as financial institutions, businesses, or health care workers, who have a copy of your supportive attorney appointment.

Once completed, keep the original and a record of who you have informed of the revocation.
